Exam 4 Guide

Chapter 12

- Which social psych principles are applicable to the legal system? Be able to provide examples.

- Be familiar with the flaws of eyewitness memory. Also be able to describe some of the factors that affect eyewitness memory accuracy that were discussed in class.

- What is the misinformation effect?

- Be able to describe Loftus and Palmer's (1974) classic misinformation study. What did the researchers do? What did they find?

- Be familiar with the various criticisms regarding polygraph tests. Why do truthful individuals often fail these tests? Why do lying individuals sometimes pass them?

- What do innocent individuals sometimes make false confessions? What factors might make an individual more prone to providing a false confession?

- Be familiar with the jury selection process

- How do group dynamics affect jury decision making?

Chapter 13

- What is industrial/organizational psychology? Be able to distinguish between industrial psych and organization psych.

- Be familiar with the Hawthorne effect.

- Do interviews promote sound hiring? Be familiar with how biases might shape the hiring process.

- What is “cybervetting”?

- Be familiar with test-based alternatives to traditional interviews.

- Be familiar with leadership traits/various leadership styles discussed in class

- What is Vroom’s expectancy theory?

- Be able to describe Deci (1971’s) study on intrinsic motivation. What were the methods and what is the main take-away?

- Be able to describe Greenberg’s (1988) study on workplace equity. Again, what were the methods and what is the main take-away?

- Be able to describe factors contributing to the gender wage gap

Chapter 14

- How do psychologists define stress?

- Be familiar with the general effects of stress on the human body.

- How do psychologists measure stress?

- What are microstressors? How is SES related to microstressors?

- What is general adaption syndrome?

- Be familiar with Cohen et al’s (1998) study on stress duration and illness. Be able to describe the methods and key findings.

- What is learned helplessness? Be able to describe Seligman's classic study on learned helplessness.

- What factors lead to resilience?

- What is self-efficacy?

- What is the relationship between optimism/pessimism and health?

- What is the relationship between money and happiness?

- Be able to describe Kassin's (1997) study on wealth and subjective well-being. Be able to describe the methods and key findings.